MAYOR DUNFORD AFTER THE DOUGH

ORDERS ARREST OF CAR OWNER ON A POSSESSION CHARGE

Officials Refuse to Give Up Stolen Automobile Unless Reward is Paid—Owner Put in Jail—Governor Donahey to Call Men on Green Carpet.

Charges will be filed with Governor Donahey against Mayor Dunford and Deputy Marshal Walter Howard of Amanda, Fairfield county, Detective George Ruder said Saturday.

Just what the nature of the charges will be has not been decided, Ruder said, but it is believed they will be serious enough to warrant the Amanda officials being called upon the governor's little green carpet.

It happened like this: Columbus police were told Wednesday night by C. A. Craft, 36 West Markson avenue, that his automobile had been stolen from Southwood avenue and High street Thursday, word came from Amanda that the stolen machine had been abandoned there, and a request was made that it be sent for.

Accordingly, Lieutenant of Detectives Shellenbarger gave Craft a letter of introduction to Mayor Dunford and sent him to Amanda.

At Amanda, Craft ran into a disconcerting situation, he said. Deputy Marshal Howard refused to "release the car to Craft unless paid $50 as a fee for recovering it. Craft said that he had offered no reward for the car and the deputy marshal is alleged to have threatened him with arrest for the possession of a half pint of liquor, which Howard said he had found in the stolen car.

Craft disclaimed any knowledge of the liquor and told Howard he would take the matter up with an attorney. "Oh, no, you won't," Craft said Howard told him. "You're going to jail."

Whereupon he said, Howard locked him in the Amanda jail, kept him imprisoned for two hours, then released him and ordered him out of town.

Craft returned to Columbus and consulted Lieutenant Shellenbarger who consulted Manager Rodrian of the Auto club.

Rodrian telephoned Mayor Dunford he said, and requested the release of the car and was curtly refused. Rodrian then threatened to appeal to Governor Donahey for assistance.

"Go ahead," Rodrian was told, "if you take this matter up, it will be that much harder on the owner of the car."

Rodrian then established negotiations with Prosecutor Stanley Dutton of Fairfield county. Dutton, Rodrian said, was of the opinion that Mayor Dunford had no authority to hold the machine, but added he had no authority to order Dunford to release it.

In a telephone conversation with The State Journal Saturday night, Dutton said he had "no interest" in the matter but that he would advise Mayor Dunford to release the car, if Dunford came to him for advice.

According to information at police headquarters Deputy Howard was appointed by Marshal Pearl Compton, of Amanda, to serve as a prohibition enforcement officer only. Both Howard and Compton work under the supervision of Mayor Dunford, police said, altho Compton is not thought to have any connection with the stolen car episode.

MANAGER OF WESTERVILLE THE SPEAKER

Chamber of Commerce Will Hear Discussion of Live Problems.

What promises to be a rousing meeting of the Circleville chamber of commerce will take place Tuesday evening when Mr. Richard Biehl, city manager of Westerville will talk on Westerville's form of government.

Westerville is being pointed out as a model city as far as city government is concerned as they are always out of debt, constantly improving their streets, alleys, schools, light and water plants and generally running their civic affairs in a successful manner.

Mr. Biehl is a speaker worth listening to as he talked before the local Rotary club last summer and demonstrated his ability to explain his work in a clear and interesting manner.

It will be a splendid opportunity for local citizens to hear how it is possible to have a successful city government that constantly improves local conditions and yet keeps the taxes at a low rate. The luncheon will be at six o'clock and the talk immediately after.

National Leaders Promote Plans For Relief Work In Bible Lands

A committee just formed in Ohio, to promote plans for a broad program of relief work in Bible Lands, includes a number of men of nationwide prominence, such as Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War; L. J. Taber, National Master of the National Grange; and Dr. Charles F. Thwing, president-emeritus of Western Reserve University. The committee will co-operate with the Near East Relief in Ohio, with the aim of pushing to rapid completion the 1925 budget for orphanage work in the Near East.

The director of the campaign, Dr. Calvitt Clarke of Cleveland, in a statement just received here, says: "Throughout the United States, the ultimate significance of the American orphanage work in the Near East is being more and more widely appreciated. The meaning of that work, in terms of world peace, makes it more than a humanitarian enterprise; it is a hope in international affairs.

"Our committee is planning to put this phase of the Near East appeal urgently before every person it can reach. Thousands of persons who have given generously to this work in the past will be asked to renew their allegiance.

"Everyone knows of the thousands of orphans whom America saved after the Smyrna disaster. The Near East Relief is still obligated to the care of these same orphans whom it gathered from the highways and byways.

"A considerable number of the older children have, of course, come since to the age of self-support, and these have been very successfully placed out in situations where they promise to be a credit to their parentage and to afford a new virility stock to continue the life of their ancient nationality. But the most of those brought in for orphanage shelter two years ago were scarcely more than infants. They are but children still. It is evident therefore, that the necessities of this great philanthropy remain insistent.

"The orphans need food and clothing just the same now as when they were first rescued by the Turk, and American generosity is their supreme hope."

SHRINERS DO GREAT WORK FOR CRIPPLES

Hospitals in Many Cities Expend Million Dollars a Year.

The eleventh unit of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children, part of a chain stretching across the United States and into Canada, was opened in Springfield, providing 500 hospital beds and making it possible to cure 2000 little cripples a year. The tenth unit at Montreal, Canada, was opened last week.

The governor of Massachusetts bore into the new hospital in his arms the first of the crippled children who had been awaiting the completion of the building. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and all the Shrine temples in New England took part in the ceremonies. More than 100 little cripples had made application, though there is a capacity for only 50 children in this unit.

Shriners' hospitals have grown in three years from 50 beds in one institution to 500 beds and others are to be built in Philadelphia and Chicago. The institutions are absolutely charitable, no fees for operations or hospital care being accepted under any circumstances. They are open to all little cripples whose parents are unable to pay, without restrictions as to color, race or religion. More than 2000 children, born crippled or made so by accident or disease, have been restored to normal condition by the aid of the Shrine, which expends more than $1,000,000 a year in this work.

Shrine hospitals are in operation in St. Louis, San Francisco, Portland, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Shreveport, Louisiana, Montreal, Springfield, Massachusetts, Winnipeg, Canada, Salt Lake City, Spokane and Honolulu.

Earrings of 100 Years Ago Vogue in Dresden

Dresden.—Now is the time for women who desire to be in fashion to bring out their earrings from the time of Napoleon I. Fortunate is the woman who has among her heirlooms earrings dating back 100 years and more.

Dame fashion prescribes an ear dress made up of rather long golden chains fastened to the ear and ending in a beautiful pearl or precious stone. Some of these ear gears extend down to the seam of the low-neck cut, and are made up of a series of precious stones.

Contrasts of color, by which attention is to be called to the costly nature of the various stones making up the hanging ear decoration, are as much in fashion now as they were taboo the last time earrings were in vogue, some 25 years ago.

PURITANICAL PROHIBITION IS ENFORCED

Chillicothe Enjoys Sound Sleep Sunday Under the Blue Laws.

DISTRESSINGLY QUIET

Ancient Capital Deader Than Works of Mound Builders.

Chillicothe awakened Monday from the soundest sleep it has ever known. The drastic old Ohio "blue law" code was enforced Sunday in all its puritanical prohibitions.

Here and there a cautious twiddling of thumbs disturbed the placidity of the day but otherwise all was calm.

The ancient capital of Ohio and center of the Indian mound district was deadlier than the mounds themselves and they haven't moved a pace in 200 years.

Mayor A. P. Minshall, believing that the best way to get rid of an unpopular law is to enforce it, ordered the lid clamped down tight.

Chillicothe went the mayor one better. The Sunday blue laws were enforced to the last dot on the I's and the last cross bar on the T's.

You couldn't buy a box of matches there Sunday. Several correspondents who came down from Columbus and Cleveland for the occasion tried. Finally they got one box of bootleg matches by tipping a bellboy ten cents.

"I ain't selling 'em, sir," the bellboy explained. "Th' jes giving you those matches."

You couldn't buy gasoline within the city limits. Morning papers were not for sale anywhere. Every place of business, except restaurants, were closed. The restaurants could not sell anything but food.

Drug stores displayed black interiors and the hospitals seemingly offered the only aid for the sick or injured.

Chillicothe was as free from gaiety as a turtle is from feathers.

Mayor Minshall announced Monday that he viewed the town's first experience with the blue laws "as a big success."

UNDERWENT OPERATION.

The condition of Mrs. J. L. Merriman who underwent a serious operation at Grant hospital, Columbus, Saturday is reported very favorable. Dr. J. F. Baldwin performed the operation. Her physician, Dr. O. H. Dutton, of this city, was with her.

CRITICALLY ILL.

Mrs. E. H. Rausenberger and Miss Mabel Bowman Saturday visited with Rev. G. E. Tift, who is critically ill at his home, 176 North Harris avenue, Columbus. A card from any friends would be much appreciated by him.

Hand-Painted Shoes Fad French Riviera Resor

Cannes, France.—Women's shoes in mah-jongg pyrogravure and hand-painted designs are becoming quite popular here and at Monte Carlo and Nice at the beginning of what promises to be a most brilliant season on the Riviera. Examples of hand-painted footwear worn at the casinos include mauve satin models ornamented with designs in gold and gray, and gray satin shoes with hand-painted roses on both the vamp and the quarter.

Line of Horses Kept in One Family Since 1776

Manhattan, Kas.—Riley county, Kas., boasts a horse eligible to membership in the Sons of the American Revolution.

The animal's proud lineage recently saved its life in the veterinary hospital of the Kansas State Agricultural college here. The horse was brought to the hospital with an incurable foot disease, and veterinarians recommended killing it. The farmer, however, objected to parting with his steed. He said his own grandfather, a major in the war of the revolution, had ridden an ancestor of the horse, and that his line had remained in his family ever since.

The horse has gone into honorable retirement in the hospital here.

Tooth Closes School

Kelso, Wash.—The entire student body of the St. Helen's school on Upper Tottle river recently had the toothache. So Mrs. Bessie Hooper, the teacher, dismissed school and took her class to Castle Rock, thirty miles distant to visit a dentist. This trip required two days, but the thirteen-year-old girl, the entire school enrollment was relieved of the ailment.

Big Dan's Return From the West

By ELLA SAUNDERS
(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

BIG DAN MORGAN was back from the West after a five years' absence, and Milly was watching him in terror all through his visit. Was this the man she had practically engaged herself to?

And he had come back as poor as he had gone. And he looked twenty years her senior. Milly had been only eighteen when Big Dan went away, and now she was twenty-three, and—there was Jim.

What a fool to expect her to have been true to him! And the impudence of him, coming back penniless!

"I can't marry him, Aunt, I can't," sobbed the girl when he had gone.

Aunt Miriam, who was not far from forty, a little, faded, gentle woman, sighed. She knew the worth of Big Dan's heart. But what was the use of trying to explain that to her niece—flighty little Milly, whose head was turned by anything masculine that appeared on the scene?

"He's old, and he's a failure, a horrible failure," sobbed Milly. "And Jim's making good as quick as he can. And he wants me to marry him. So there you are!"

Big Dan came every evening, and Milly grew harder and colder, but Big Dan didn't seem to see. "The West hasn't improved him," she told her aunt, jeeringly.

"Milly, dear, if you really feel that way you ought to tell him," her aunt protested. "It's easy to see he hasn't any idea that you don't intend to marry him. You must play fair with him."

"You tell him!" said Milly.

"Why, child, what an idea!" exclaimed Aunt Miriam, much shocked. "I'm not going to."

"But he's leaving for the West again in a few weeks, and you must—must have it settled one way or the other."

"Well, it will be the other, then," said Milly. "And I'm not going to see him when he comes here on Saturday."

Dan Morgan had gone away for a few days and had intimated that on his return he would have important news for them.

No arguments of her aunt's could shake the girl's resolution, and it was with desperate anxiety that Miss Miriam waited Big Dan's arrival on the Saturday evening.

She knew the tenderness of heart that underlay his rough exterior, and she dreaded the shock that her news would give him.

Big Dan breezed in and shook hands with her. "Where's Milly?" he asked. "She—she had to go out," faltered Miss Miriam. "She was so sorry—No, she wasn't sorry," she added, with a sudden burst of decision. "I'm going to tell you the truth, because she won't tell you herself. She's in love with another man, and she wants to marry him. And now you know the worst."

Big Dan stood perfectly silent in front of her. Miss Miriam did not dare look up. How was he taking it? If she gauged Big Dan Morgan aright the shock would nearly kill him.

Or worse. It would destroy his faith in womanhood, that womanhood she believed in so sincerely.

Big Dan's voice broke on her ears. "That's too bad, Miss Miriam," he said. "I had some good news for her. I've sold that gold mine I was telling about for a million dollars. I'm to be manager of the company, and I'm starting West tomorrow."

Miss Miriam looked up. Looked up incredulously, for Big Dan stood there actually smiling.

"I guess it's not such bad news to me as you supposed, Miss Miriam," he said. "I kind of guessed which way the wind was blowing. And besides, I've got my own reasons to be glad. There's another in my mind—has been for ever so long. Yes, I surely am glad of the news that you've told me today."

Suddenly his arm slid round Miss Miriam's waist.

"It's you I want," he said. "I want you to come West with me tomorrow. I can't tell you how happy I'll be if you will. Do you think you can?"

"Oh, I don't know what to say," sobbed Miss Miriam.

"I'll tell you," smiled Big Dan.

Hairpin Always Handy
There is nothing of more general utility than a hairpin. If you wish to hang a picture and no hook is at hand for that purpose, a hairpin makes a very satisfactory substitute, provided you do not wish to mar the wall by driving a nail into it.

To make a picture hook use a hairpin of heavy wire. A double bend is made in the pin somewhat like the form of the picture hook. The bent hairpin is then hung over the molding and the picture cord inserted in the projecting hook.

Awful Thought
Bill Burlap was painting the house for his brother while the family looked on. At the finish his brother asked: "Think it will last, Bill?" "When I paint anything," replied Bill, "it's painted. You're painted for ten years."

That afternoon as Bill was shaving a little nephew bothered him considerably, so he playfully gave the kid a swish of lather across the snoot. But the kid went down the hall yelling woefully: "Uncle Bill painted me. I'm painted for ten years."

CIRCLEVILLE GIRL
Passes Red Cross Life Saving Test With Highest Score of Twenty-Two Contestants.

Miss Isabelle Ritt, '26, Circleville, Ohio, has recently become a member of the Red Cross Life Saving Corps of Western College, Oxford, Ohio.

Miss Ritt has progressed so rapidly in swimming that she was able to pass the difficult Red Cross Life Saving test with the highest score of the twenty-two contestants.

The ease with which she sublimely the drowning subject was remarkable. She broke the death strangleholds with unusual dexterity. Miss Ritt succeeded not only in recovering a one hundred and fifty pound person from the bottom of the pool, but also in lifting the subject from the water. Her manner of resuscitation was rhythmic and vigorous.

Sophie Arnoult.

Sophie Arnoult, actress, was born in Paris in the year 1740. Her father, a hotelkeeper, gave her a good education. Chance brought her to the stage, where she delighted the public from 1757 to 1778. The princess of Modena, happening to be in retirement at Val de Grace, was struck by a very fine voice that sang at vespers—Sophie Arnoult was the songstress. The princess induced her to join the royal choir. This step paved the way to the opera, where she soon became the favorite. All persons of rank and the literati sought her society.

WOMEN ON NEW "JITNEY" BUSES IN TOKYO

Women are acting as conductresses aboard the new "jitney" busses in Tokyo, as witness the photograph showing one of the trim little Nipponese at her post. Motor busses are becoming increasingly popular in Japan, and girls are being employed as "nickel nurses" for the cars. Hundreds of Japanese girls have already started on this new vocation for the Orient.

GASOLINE TAXES AND FEES SMALL

Receipts Are Largely Devoted to Road Construction and Maintenance.

The average license fee per mile of motorists in this country is one-fifth of a cent, and the gasoline taxes paid amounts to one twenty-fifth of a cent, or an average for both of one-quarter of a cent per mile, according to the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. That is what the fees paid in a year amount to when divided by 6,000, which is believed to be the average motorist's annual mileage.

Devoted to Roads.
The motorist or truck operator is assured of a good return from the taxes he pays, since the receipts are very largely devoted to road construction and maintenance. In 1923, 81 per cent of the motor vehicle license revenues and 50 per cent of the gasoline taxes were turned over to the state highway departments for expenditure under their supervision, and a considerable portion of the remainder was expended by the counties for road purposes.

Various Rates.
Consideration of the gasoline tax is of special interest to the motor vehicle operator. Thirty-five states now have this form of tax, the rates ranging from 1 to 3 cents, with the exception of one state, which has a 4-cent tax. A 1-cent gasoline tax increases the cost of operating the average vehicle by less than a tenth of a cent per mile. On a trip from Washington to Philadelphia the tax would amount to 10 cents. The trip over the Lincoln Highway from New York to San Francisco would be taxed $2.50. It is interesting to compare these rates with the toll charges which motorists formerly had to pay on toll roads. On six different turnpikes in Virginia and Maryland tolls amounting to $5.05 were charged for a total of 187 miles, which is equivalent to 2.7 cents a mile. If a state attempted to charge this same rate for the use of the public highways by automobiles, it would have to establish a gasoline tax of 36 cents per gallon.

Suggestions to Follow When Accidents Occur

Everybody with a grain of sense seems to know what to do in the case of fire, but there are still no fixed rules for behavior when cars or pedestrians collide, and many are of the opinion that lives could be saved through more definite procedure following the accident. Several of the major suggestions selected from various sources are as follows:

Never argue over the matter of responsibility for the accident when there are more important things to be considered. In the calm light of afterthought any accident or collision looks different to the participants.

Be familiar with the location of local hospitals and their emergency entrance.

First move your car over to the curb, where it will be out of the way. If there are other cars passing ask some one to take you and the injured one to the hospital.

In such a predicament you are in no condition to drive. You might easily have a second collision on the way.

Co-operate to the fullest extent. It is a strong point in your favor.

Be sure to report the matter to the police immediately upon looking after the victim.

Act, don't talk.

The police will get names of eye-witnesses. The driver who gives too much attention to getting witnesses in his favor is suspected of trying to frame an alibi to cover his carelessness.

Winter Driving Hints

Slush plus a surfaced road form a super-skiddish combination. Keep your car well under control so that you will not have to depend on your skid chains. It is almost impossible to "Listen" at a grade crossing when riding in a closed car with the windows shut. Therefore, your eyes must do double duty. See that the tracks are clear in both directions before you attempt to cross.

Trains and trolley cars are just as deadly in winter as in summer. Failure to take every precaution at the grade crossing may be punishable by death.

Winter nights fall early and necessitate more driving after dark. Keep a couple of extra bulbs on hand in case of a burn-out. Adjust your lights so they won't blind the other fellow.

Pedestrians on the highway at night are likely to be heavily muffled in dark overcoats, making it harder for them to hear you and for you to see them. Watch out!

A Connecticut judge has ruled that failure to see a person does not relieve you of the responsibility of his death or injury. If snow, fog or glare from an approaching automobile makes it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead, reduce your speed.

Schools are open. The warning signs which did not apply during vacation months now should be carefully regarded.

Rubber tires will not hold on hard-packed snow, ice or slush-covered pavements. Chains in the tool box will not save you after the car has begun to skid.

came from behind another car, was struck but not even scratched. The demonstration was given recently in Washington.

Difference Apparent in Various Makes of Autos

Whoever started the story that one car is as good as another and that there isn't much difference in the basic ideas of automobile design ought to get the prize for making the worst guess. Get behind the wheel of a half dozen cars and the results will surprise you. In some respects some cars are altogether different from others, and you'll be amazed to see what a mistake you've made in supposing that when John Jones shifted gears he was handling the same sort of clutch and transmission as you are accustomed to. There are a lot of sales points, to be sure. But it will pay you to investigate, even if it merely serves to convince you that the automobile is going right ahead getting better every day.

Wise Conservatism.

Cultivate a just moderation. Learn to reconcile order with change, stability with progress. This is a wise conservatism; this is a wise reform. Rightly understanding these terms, who would not be a conservative? Who would not be a reformer? A conservative of all that is good; a reformer of all that is evil; a conservative of knowledge; . . . a conservative of that divine order which is found only in movement; a reformer of those earthly wrongs and abuses which spring from a violation of the great law of human progress.—Charles Sumner.

Keep Cheerful.

Now's the time to cheer up and gear up. Don't let a lowering horizon or human rumblings disturb you. There have been many dark days before and they were followed by sunshine. There has been distress of nations and it has been followed by great marches of progress. The days of the present are the prelude to coming great things. Look the world in the face and teach it to respect you. Marshal your forces in such order that you have them in easy command and you are geared to serve. After all it's the cheerful face and the geared up life that brings things to pass in this world.—Grit.

Real Heart of Paris.

The Place de la Concorde is almost more the heart of Paris than the Place de l'Opera. In it the famous Rue de Rivoli ends and the Champs Elysees begins. It is the true termination of the Grandes Boulevards, for Parisians consider the Rue Royale as part of that celebrated chain of wide caled streets. It is one of the most important and by far the most beautiful of the many "places" from which the main streets of Paris radiate.

ARRESTS FOR VIOLATION OF LAW SUNDAY

Three Young Men From Logan Brought in by Officers.

Sunday was a fine day to be out in a car enjoying the balmy spring air and some autoists had more than an. Sheriff Young on his way to Columbus ran across an auto that had gone into the ditch north of South Bloomfield. On investigating he found that the owner of the car, William Miller, and residents of this city and the latter his companion, William Fowler, were put under arrest. Fowler was placed temporarily in the South Bloomfield jail. The car was pulled out of the ditch and stored in a garage. The sheriff found a small flask of whisky in a pocket of the car. A charge of possession of intoxicating liquor was filed against Miller.

R. E. Belt, C. Blosser and a Mr. Thomas, the latter a son of the chief of police of Logan, were taken from an auto Sunday morning by Chief of Police Warner and Sheriff Young and were taken in the mayor's office. Belt and Blosser were intoxicated and a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor was placed against them. They were placed in the city prison. Thomas, who was the only sober one of the trio was released from custody.

Motor Cop Hides in Boiler.

In one week 202 speeding motorists on Mission road at Los Angeles, Cal., were arrested by a motorcycle policeman who apparently materialized out of thin air. His well-chosen hiding place was a big abandoned boiler in a vacant lot, which afforded sufficient room for the machine as well as its rider.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"HELP YOURSELF" HOTEL IS A SUCCESS

Guests Select Own Room and Drop Pay in Box.

Pearsall, Tex.—In this town is a "help yourself" hotel. This hostelry has been in successful operation two years. It is owned by H. L. Brooks, sheriff and tax collector of the county.

Mr. Brooks is so well pleased with his experiment of running a hotel on the honesty of his guests that he plans to add more rooms to accommodate the growing list of visitors. Brooks seldom goes about the hotel. He unlocks the box where the guests have deposited their money for rooms once every week or so. The housekeeping, such as making beds and cleaning rooms, is done by a servant.

The hotel is convenient to the business section of the town. It is an attractive building and the rooms are large and well fitted.

On entering the lobby the guests at once see the rules and regulations hanging on the wall. First is the book where the name of the guest and the number of the room he takes are registered. Then on the wall is a small blackboard, on which is a list of numbers of the occupied rooms and the unoccupied rooms. When a guest takes a room he erases it from the list of unoccupied rooms and writes the number of the room with the list of the occupied.

On the table is a container holding envelopes. Each guest takes an envelope and writes the number of his room on it, places the money he owes for the room in it and seals it, then, before leaving the hotel, drops it in a lock box on the table.

Often times, Mr. Brooks says, he gets letters from persons who have stayed at his hotel saying how they enjoyed being a guest in such a unique hotel. He also says that he has been cheated out of only $2.

Predicts Man Will Lose

Teeth, Toes, All His Hair

Boston.—Man will lose many, if not all, his teeth, he will be absolutely hairless and he undoubtedly will lose certain toes and fingers. These predictions are based on scientific study by E. E. Raymond, professor of paleontology and geology at Harvard university.

These changes will not come until man has passed through a series of evolutionary phases, which probably will cover 40,000 to 75,000 years, according to Professor Raymond. He predicts heightening and broadening of the forehead and enlarging of the skull for bigger brain and longer face.

"The future man," he said, "is as certain to lose his teeth as the ape man of the past lost his tail. The ape man used his teeth to tear sinews, break nuts and as weapons of offense in fighting. Civilization has done away with these conditions.

"Hair is a defense given by nature against cold. Civilization gave man coats and artificial coverings. Baldness is on the increase, while it probably never existed on ancient man. In 40,000 years man may be as bald as a billiard ball.

"That man will lose certain fingers and toes also seem to be a biological certainty. When man climbed trees to escape from animals his toes were needed to give him footholds. Now they are quite useless. The shape of the human skull and man's erect position are designed to promote an increase in the size and weight of the brain."

Yank Forbids Samoans to Use Lordly Title

Apia, Samoa.—The title of "tulimannu'a" of the Manua district of American Samoa has been prohibited by the governor, Capt. Edward S. Kellogg, United States navy.

Manuans who claim the right to bestow the title are aggrieved. The governor explained he would not allow the title to be held for the reason that it was equivalent to a kingship, and under the American government there could be no king.

A large number of Samoan titles are designated as "tulimannu'a". The word is Toga, introduced into the Samoan language. A dictionary of the Samoan language defines it as "high chief" or "king." But the Samoan word for king is "tupu."

A tulimannu'a does not exercise any political power, but his person is considered sacred and he commands the highest respect.

Find Footprints Made 10,000,000 Years Ago

Washington, D. C.—Dinosaur tracks made approximately 10,000,000 years ago, during the Triassic age, probably the first footprints of this geological period found in the Rocky mountains area, have been identified on the Navajo Indian reservation in Arizona, near the Grand Canyon National park.

An announcement by the Interior department recently said the tracks occur in a thin layer of rocks about seven miles from Tuba City. The footprints measure 16 inches in length with a spread of 13 inches. The stride is shown to be 53 inches. The toes bore sharp claws, indicating the animals belonged to the bipedal carnivorous dinosaurs.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT PLANS MADE

Contests Will be Staged on C. A. C. Floor Friday Evening.

Plans for the Pickaway county basketball tournament were completed last Friday afternoon following the drawing of the schedules in the office of M. C. Warren, county school superintendent.

The contests will be played on the C. A. C. floor. Since it has been impossible for the committee to secure the floor Saturday night the tournament will be begun Friday evening, February 27, at 7 o'clock. Preliminary will continue thruout Saturday, February 28, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning. Games will be resumed Friday evening, March 6, and will continue thruout Saturday, March 7. The final games of the tournament will be played Saturday afternoon, March 7, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

This year's tournament promises to be one of the best ever held at the local hall. There is no lack of rivalry between the competing teams and interest in the coming tournament is intense. On the basis of past scores it would seem almost impossible to pick any likely winner. Games scheduled for the first night indicate that the tournament will get away to a rousing start.

Boys' Schedule.

Drawings for the boys' game resulted as follows:

Friday evening, February 27—Pickaway vs. Monroe; Saturday Saltcreek vs. Muhlenberg.

Saturday evening, February 28—Ashville vs. Jackson; Scioto vs. New Holland.

Saturday afternoon—The winner of the Pickaway-Monroe game vs. Deercreek; the winner of the Saltcreek-Muhlenberg game vs. Atlanta.

Girls' Schedule.

Drawings for the girls' games are:

Friday evening, February 27—Scioto vs. Saltcreek; Walnut vs. Ashville.

Saturday morning, February 28—Pickaway vs. Atlanta.

Saturday afternoon—Deercreek vs. New Holland; the winner of the Walnut-Ashville game vs. Monroe.

Two teams drawing ties will not play during the first Friday and Saturday of the tournament but will pass directly into the semi-finals and play their first games the second Friday night. They are the Walnut boys' team and the Muhlenberg girls' team.

Yellow Bud Boy Plays Trumpet
With Royal Highlanders In Florida.

The Ross county boys do go to the front.

Observe the progress of one Robert Immell of Yellow Bud, well known here a few years ago, as a trumpet player in a local band.

He has stepped along in such good shape that he is now playing the leading trumpet in the Royal Highlander band, on a winter engagement in St. Petersburg, Fla. This musical organization has a personnel of some fifty members.

The city of Petersburg and the county in which it is located has appropriated $50,000 to secure the services of this band during the winter season to entertain tourists. They give two performances in the afternoon and a big show each evening.

That the Immell family is musically inclined is seen in the fact that he has a brother who is a member of Sousa's famous band playing a winter engagement at Miami, Fla.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

CIRCLEVILLE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE TIE

Trick Turned When Greenfield Met Defeat Here Friday.

Chillicothe was presented with an unexpected gift Friday night, a tie for second place in the South Central Ohio high school cage conference race when Circleville high doormen nosed out McClain high at Circleville by a score of 12-9. The game, hard fought from start to finish, was a battle to the final whistle, the McClainers making a desperate effort to keep in second place by themselves.

Wilmington managed to firmly lock Hillsboro in the cellar, the game at Hillsboro ending with the Clintonians on the long end of an 18-13 score.

With the conference season at an end all teams were girding themselves for the various Class "A" district elimination tournaments. Chillicothe plays Athens here next week and Nelsonville on the following week. It will be the first time a Nelsonville quintet has ever appeared here.

AMUSEMENTS

Frederic Arnold Kummer wrote a tremendously popular novel "Plaster Saints" that Murray W. Garsson has produced on the screen under the title of "The Spitfire." In addition to putting a "best seller" on the silver sheet Mr. Garsson has invested it with one of the biggest all star casts ever assembled for one picture. The picture array of talent includes Betty Blythe Lowell Sherman, Elliott Dexter, Pauline Garon, Robert Warwick and Burr McIntosh.

"Plaster Saints" was absorbing as a book. As a big picture it is even more thrilling and exciting. It is a human story, vividly picturing today's life in the big cities.

Into the turmoil enters Jean Bronson unsophisticated, yet possessed of beauty, talent and a goodly share of the worldly goods—money. But the path of happiness is not free of thorns Old Carrington, her millionaire grandfather, cuts her off; her home is closed to her. Why? Because she saw fit to be honest with the man she loved, a handsome, athletic young man named Douglas Kenyon.

In quick succession there follows a series of twists and turns to this thriller that enmesh the principal characters and sends both thru some perilous experiences.

"The Spitfire" has a hero made of sterner stuff an alert fighting active chap who overcomes all kinds of odds in his battle to win the beautiful Jean. Miss Blythe appears as Jean while Mr. Dexter plays the role of Kenyon.

BOVINE T. B. BRANDED PUBLIC HEALTH MENACE

Columbus, Feb. 20.—Branding bovine tuberculosis as a menace to public health, delegates attending the annual meeting of the Ohio Live Stock Co-operative Association here yesterday asked the Ohio general assembly to appropriate at least $2,000,000 for two years for its eradication. The resolution asking for such appropriation passed unanimously.

Jean Nash, now Moslem Bride Tells American Flapper to Beware

FROM Cairo, to Luxor, to Paris, to New York City is the year-long honeymoon trip planned by Mrs. Jean Nash and her latest husband, who is Mohammed Sabet Bey, nephew of the first secretary of the Egyptian Legation at London. Cable news of this marriage was a tremendous surprise to her many friends in this country.

Mrs. Mohammed Sabet Bey, who is known as the best dressed woman in the world, is an American by birth; a daughter of the late E. S. Donaldson. Her first husband was John S. Kirwin. They eloped and were married. Later this marriage was annulled because of their youth. The next was Winfield Clifford Sifton, of Canada. They were parted by law. Mrs. Donaldson then went to Europe where she became the bride of Captain John Victor Nash. Her reputation as the best dressed woman was too much for Captain Nash's bank roll. He filed suit for divorce, alleging she had ruined him by her extravagant habits. He was granted the divorce.

When last in this country, Mrs. Nash wrote her impressions of the smart American girl for the magazine, "Smart Set."

In part, Mrs. Nash says: "Speed is the watchword. No time for leisure. No time to develop charm. Fatigue is submerged in a cocktail. Dull eyes, sparkle glassily. Cigarettes are smoked incessantly to calm nerves over-stimulated by alcohol. Always the American girl seeks—not the easiest way—but the shortest cut."

Mrs. Nash ridicules the alibi, "Men expect it," as an excuse for dissipation. "From time immemorial," she says, "young men have selected 'jazz' girls as the companions for the cafe and cabaret revels. But, emerging from the calf age, it has always been toward the sweet, demure girls of their own set that the worthwhile ones have turned."

"Surely, these razz-dazzle young debutantes are not seeking to replace these poor little light night moths?"

"If they are, then their quiet homelier sister debs may rejoice, for to them will fall the matrimonial plums."

Needles Long In Use.

Steel needles were found among the Kaffirs in Africa, and elsewhere, so that they may have had early aboriginal invention in more than one country. The earliest European eyed needles were of bone and ivory, sometimes of bronze. In 1370 steel needles were certainly being made in Nuremberg, possibly in England also, though until 1563 the raw material came from Spain.

Ostrich Feathers Popular Trimming

Decoration Adds to Beauty of Costume; Hand-Painting Is Fashionable.

New ideas in the use of ostrich feathers are constantly devised. For, though feathers for accessories and trimming have been used for more than two seasons, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times, they possess so many possibilities of charm and chic that they carry on. In millinery ostrich, the new "willow" kind is used on many of the more dressy hats. Even on the stiff beavers and felts some milliners have introduced ostrich feather pompons and the longer ostrich feathers. In one extreme novelty from a smart Parisian house a black silk smooth beaver of the director type, made of black and white feather, ostrich is fastened at one side and hangs to the point of the hip.

Some unusually pretty, dressy collars or short boas are made of this wavy willow ostrich, very full and fluffy, to tie with ribbons in front, at one side or at the back of the neck. They are shown in many colors, and one that is thought uncommonly smart is of black and white, marked to resemble the old-fashioned Shetland wool yarn. Any of these feather things for the neck adds a soft touch to a plain frock, and one sees them worn by fashionable women in the smart restaurants and in theaters.

Hand-painting, a manner of embellishing many articles in the wardrobe of a fashionably dressed woman, has been so long out of style as to have seemed lately like a lost art. But this season some of the best things of many types are hand-painted—gowns, negligees, scarfs, stockings, lingerie, gloves and even handkerchiefs. Among the frocks is a white chiffon painted in garlands of flowers—wild roses and feathery ferns—though it would have found no favor a few seasons ago. In the up-to-date adaptation the painted things appear to be in perfect harmony with the mode of the day and are regarded as very smart.

The scarfs are perhaps the most decorative of all the hand-painted dress novelties. Those of silk, crepe or chiffon in the new dainty colors, some very long, are painted on the ends with designs of many kinds, graceful floral and conventional motifs being equally popular. The variants in these are many, and some are startlingly picturesque. A long, straight scarf of white crepe has a big flamingo painted on each end. Another, in yellow, forms a background for clusters of large golden roses, and a scarf of vermilion silk has end designs in large black plumes.

No colors are quite so popular as black and white, shown in many striking combinations. Of all the styles in design those of Russian character are perhaps the most successful. Hand-painted nightgowns, lingerie and other practical apparel are a passing fad and are not seriously considered this side of the water.

Turquoise Blue Beaver Hat, Silver Cloth Trim

Chic and in keeping with the mode of the season is this attractive little turquoise blue beaver hat with silver cloth trim to accentuate its beauty.

White Evening Frocks Afford Dainty Attire

White for evening was the dictate of the smartest couturieres at the beginning of the season, and white for evening is apparently the rule of fashion.

There are two kinds of white evening frocks, one that has the ingenuousness of youth, the other is sophistication that can be achieved only by the true artiste in clothes.

In the first class are those adorable dance frocks of chiffon trimmed with gardenias or of tulle with wide full skirts like that of a Spanish dancer and pert little bows of silver ribbon placed at a most strategic point.

Under the heading of frocks of sophistication come models developed in sumptuous brocades which have here and there a glint of metal woven in their pattern.

Equally beautiful and as dignified as they are graceful are gowns of white velvet bordered with fox or ermine or covered with a tracery of intricate embroidery done in silver and crystal.

Desire.

And how like the hungry deep is desire in human experience! It has its hours of calm in which on the surface all is peace and beauty, while underneath its currents are flowing steadily hither and thither, and constantly the ripples of small wants made, for small actions, small efforts, break the hush of satisfaction. Few days pass that desire does not roll in upon us to throw the hours into commotion and few the weeks that the whitecaps of spite or selfish craving do not reach out discordant to the peace and rights of those near.—Robert S. Baltic, Ohio, Dec. 24, '24.

Mr. Fickardt.

Dear Sir:—

A few words in regard to your Poultry Drops. My flock had a sneezing cold that developed into Deadly Roup. After I began with your medicine I lost only a few birds which were badly infected, the sneezing in the rest of my flock began to disappear.

In a few weeks' time there was a great difference in my flock of 200 English Leghorn pullets, they began to develop and get red combs and wattles. I am sure Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops will help in egg production for a healthy bird is bound to lay if it gets the proper feeds.

Yours respectfully,

Elmer Raber.

Use High Grade Fertilizer Only

Sand and Cheap Materials Are Expensive Because of Handling Cost.

The principal arguments for high-analysis fertilizers are: (1) they save on freight, (2) they save on the cost of handling, (3) they do not require a filler, and (4) they require the use of higher grade goods by the manufacturer. So says Prof. C. P. Blackwell, chief of the agronomy division, Clemson college, who explains that high-analysis fertilizers are those containing 16 per cent or more of plant food.

Results to Farmer.

If a farmer buys a low-analysis fertilizer, the manufacturer, in order to make up this, must of necessity do one of two things. He must either use low-analysis materials for his ammonia and potash, or he must use a filler. In either case the results to the farmer are practically the same. For example, the manufacturer may use sand as a filler. One may argue that sand is very cheap and it should make little difference in the price of the fertilizer, but let us see if that is true.

To begin with, that sand must be hauled to the fertilizer plant. It must be unloaded and handled into the plant. It must then be mixed in with the fertilizer. Then it must be sacked, tagged, and handled out of the plant. All this is paid for by the farmer. It is then shipped to the farmer's freight station at his expense, and he must now haul it to his farm and distribute it over the land. All this takes labor, so in the end this sand has cost the farmer a great deal. The manufacturer will generally say that he does not charge the farmer for this filler and perhaps he does not directly, but indirectly he does add it to the farmer's bill.

Again, one may say that the filler does not amount to much. That may or may not be true. If the farmer is buying 8-3-3 fertilizer (and more than 40 per cent of the fertilizer sold in South Carolina is of that analysis), this 8-3-3 fertilizer can be mixed from high analysis materials with less than 1,500 pounds of material for each ton of fertilizer, the remaining 500 pounds being filler. This 500 pounds of filler must add materially to the cost of buying this fertilizer and applying it to the field.

Low Analysis Materials.

As a general rule, however, the manufacturer would, most likely, use low-analysis materials for making up this fertilizer. The result, however, is practically the same so far as the farmer is concerned. He pays for the expense of handling the large bulk of low-grade material used in making up this fertilizer, and frequently the materials used are not so good as the higher analysis materials.

Deep, Mellow Seed Bed Is Required for Soy Beans

Soy beans require a deep mellow seed bed similar to corn and it would pay to plow the field and keep it in good condition until the first of June, which is about the best time to sow the beans. Manchu is one of the best varieties for hay. The oat cups should be used in the grain drill and they should all be left open when sowing for hay. The drill should be adjusted to sow from 60 to 90 pounds per acre.

The beans must be inoculated to get the best results and the best way to do it is to secure some soil from a field where soy beans are grown, being careful to get soil that has contained some of the soy-bean roots. Spread this out and let it dry, but do not expose it to the sun for the light will kill the bacteria. Then mix three or four quarts of the soil with each bushel of the seed and drill it together. Be careful not to get the seed covered too deeply. Never plant deeper than three inches, depending upon the soil.

Useful Manure Spreader

Durability of manure spreader depends largely upon resistance to wear of its gears and bearing surfaces. A spreader has to withstand almost as bad usage in this respect as plow or cultivator. Modern spreaders are generally made with bearings carefully guarded against dust and grit. All moving parts that require lubrication should be covered and protected so dirt and stone cannot get into them. An oiled surface will hold dust and grit.

Cows Fail to Clean Well

It is very noticeable in some sections where the soil is under continuous croppings for a long period, as well as during hot, dry seasons when the crops do not grow well, that the cows fail to clean naturally at calving time. This frequently happens when the cows are fed a ration that is low in mineral matter. In herds that are fed sparingly and with a poor ration the number of cows that fail to clean are many more than from a well-fed herd.

Cause of Weak Pigs

There are several things that cause pigs to be weak at birth. Probably the most common cause is the improper care of the sow during pregnancy. The sow must be fed a carefully balanced ration containing plenty of protein and mineral matter for these substances must be present to build the growing embryos. Exercise is very important because the sow must be in good health to nourish the young pigs.

MOTOR ON WINGS TO OPEN DESERT?

Contemptuous of the terrors of the burning sands is the motor on wings. The American world flyers relate a thrilling tale of riding a sandstorm through the Sind desert in India quite as suffocating at 7,000 feet altitude as at 50. But they navigated the fiery hurricane without resort to the usual methods of the ships of the desert and their swarthy masters. And they did in a day what a caravan could do in 30.

The desert will always be associated by the great mass of mankind which never sees it with beauty and poetry, with sheik and legend, with fair maidens and dashing Bedouins. For those with the more intimate contact of everyday living it seems destined to a future of practical development.

Had Right to Be Proud of Exhibition of Tact

Sir John Ross, late lord chancellor of Ireland, who has done the topical thing and written his reminiscences, "The Years of My Pilgrimage," has the wit and readiness of an Irishman, whether or not he is one. By wonderful tact Sir John once extricated himself from an awkward position. He was reading a book in bed in a hotel when a woman by mistake entered the room and went to the mirror unaware she was in the wrong room.

"Fearing to cough, or make any noise whatever, I remained motionless, waiting for the time when her gaze would turn to the bed behind the door, and its unhappy occupant. At last this happened, and, anticipating a shriek, without lifting my eyes from the book, I quietly said: "Will you please bring my tea, and bread-and-butter, at once."

"Supposing that I had mistaken her for the housemaid, she was able to make a dignified and orderly retreat without speaking."—San Francisco Argonaut.

New York Telephones Kept Reasonably Busy

The statement that New York city has more telephones than the whole of Great Britain conveys a vivid picture of the number of instruments there must be in the city. Many people, especially foreigners unused to the telephone as a daily necessity, may have wondered to what extent such a huge number of telephones, more than a million, are used, says Telephone Service.

A recent statement by H. A. Trax, chief accountant of the New York Telephone company, throws some light on the question. During the year 1923 an average of more than 18,570 toll or long-distance calls every day kept New Yorkers in close touch with the rest of the country, while at the present time the total number of calls, local and long distance, in the city averages 6,200,000 every day. In other words, every telephone in New York city is used on an average about five times every day.

"Highbrow" Oil

The lure of white gold led the directors of a Country club at Long Beach, Calif., to lease a portion of the golf links to be drilled for oil. And so Long Beach came to be the only city that could boast of a "highbrow" oil well and a gentlemanly crew was hand-picked with an eye to gentleness and softly spoken words that would not offend the feminine golfers, and the steel derrick was painted a glistening white and all was surrounded with a high board fence painted a soft green to blend with the green of the golf course.

His Editorial Work

"Your husband is editor of the Clarion, is he not?" asked a newcomer of Mrs. Dinks. "Yes." "And as you have no family, and have considerable leisure on your hands, you assist him now and then in his editorial work, I dare say?" "Oh, yes!" answered the brisk little woman, hiding her berry-stained fingers under her apron. "I edit nearly all his inside matter."—Everybody's Magazine.

Navy Has Aerial Cook

Due to the fact that the giant dirigible the Shenandoah is a navy craft, the United States navy has the distinction of having an aerial navy cook. He is John J. Hahn, who has been in the navy for 14 years. He was assigned to the dirigible on its cross-country trip.

Try This Idea

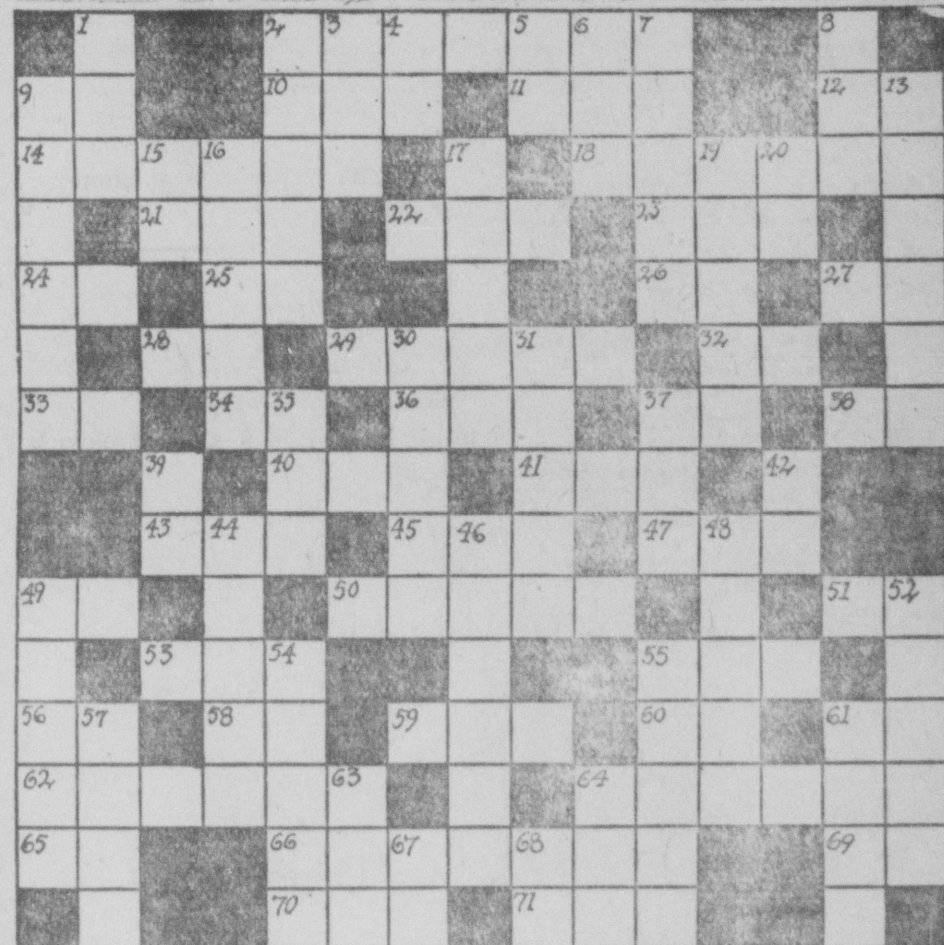

THE fellow who manufactures his own radio set will find detail work, such as soldering, made easy if he has plenty of light. No matter where his work bench may be, he can get plenty of light and focus it on the spot where he is working by using a pocket flashlight as shown in the above photograph.

Early Telephones.

The principle of the telephone has been known for many years, the first idea of it in modern days being explained in a book published in 1600. Hook commenced to study the subject in 1601 and in 1607 he succeeded in transmitting sound by means of a distended wire. Wheatstone experimented in 1821 and succeeded in conveying the sounds of a musical box from cellar to attic of his home. In 1861 an instrument called the telephone was invented, which telegraphed musical sounds by means of a rod of soft iron in a coil of wire through which a current was sent. "The reproduced notes," to quote from an account of this instrument, "though of the same pitch, are not of the same quality as the transmitting (transmitted) notes. They are very faint and resemble the sound of a toy trumpet." However, experiment after experiment was made by different scientists, until finally Professor Bell invented the system which with changes is that used today.

—TONIGHT—

If I should die tonight there still would be
One favor left—one pleasure left to me
And that to come from out my narrow cell
In spirit form and see and wish you well
To stand beside and hear you jest and quip
And feel again your wholesome fellowship—
To see your smiles and know your hearts rejoice,
And hear your songs and raise my silent voice.

If you should die tonight what would there be
Of fellowship and happiness for me?
Except, perhaps, to sit alone and stare
Across the board and see your vacant chair,
And in the smoke, to see your kindly face,
Or hear your cheer resounding thru the space
Of Memory, and, while my fancies stir,
To dream alone of happy times that were!

If some must go and some must stay behind
If Fate must cleave the friendly ties that bind—
How better far that Death should beckon on,
Than Life should last with love and friendship gone!

—John D. Wells

Derivation of "Township."

Township is a compound word, the suffix "ship" being the Anglo-Saxon "scipe," signifying condition, office, profession. Compare "citizenship," "lordship," "stewardship," etc. Originally the township was the "vill," in which lived in "villein," or "country man," and also meant the community of dwellers itself. "To arouse the township," or "enroll the township," meant the rallying to their lord's banner of the people living in the township. It had, as a geographical division, its own by-laws, made by the "moot," or corporation, and subdivision of a county.

GOOD PROGRAM AT MEETING OF GRANGERS

Installation of Officers of Pomona Saturday in Washington Township.

The Pickaway Pomona Grange was entertained by Washington Grangers on Saturday, February 21, at the Washington township school building with Worthy Master T. M. Glick, presiding.

During the forenoon session officers for 1925-26 were duly installed by Past Master L. D. May with Brother Ray Plum and Sister Clara Brown acting as assistants. At the afternoon session five candidates received the obligation of the fifth degree and an invitation to hold the next session with Darbyville Grange was formally accepted.

Following the business session the following program was rendered: Piano solo by Agnes Schaad of Salt-creek grange; Character song by members of Scioto Valley Grange; song by Miss Cleo Reid; address, "Reasons for Grange Success" by Joseph W. Fichter of Hamilton, Ohio; piano duet by Dorothy and Alma Glick of Washington Grange.

Mr. Fichter has held various positions in the Grange, of which he is at present an active member and is now superintendent of the Butler county schools. He is, therefore, deeply interested in and has made an exhaustive study of the problems confronting the young people of today as well as other questions of vital importance to everyone. Mr. Fichter also has a very pleasing and forceful way of presenting his ideas.

Debt World Is Apt to Forget.

The growing good of the world is partly dependent on unhistoric acts; and that things are not so ill with you and me as they might have been, is half owing to the number who lived faithfully a hidden life, and rest in unvisited tombs.—George Elliot.

Forestalled the President.

Peggy is feeling important these days, having been chosen secretary of her little church club. She was laboring over the minutes of her first meeting when I suggested that she should always begin: "The meeting was called to order with the president in the chair." "But she wasn't," protested Peggy, indignantly. "I was. I got there first and got the big chair and the rest had only kindergarten seats."
